

Where Are the Birds?

Twenty-four raptor species spend all or part of the year in the Snake River Birds of Prey National Conservation Area.

NESTING RAPTORS	Species	January	February	March	April	May	June	July	August	September	October	November	December
	American Kestrel	Can be seen in the NCA year-round
	Golden Eagle	Can be seen in the NCA year-round
	Ferruginous Hawk	Small Number in NCA through the winter		Migrating	National Conservation Area				Migrating	Small number in the NCA through the winter
	Northern Harrier	Can be seen in the NCA year-round
	Prairie Falcon	Migrating	National Conservation Area						Moves to Higher Elevation Prairies		Migrating	Southwest U.S.
	Red-tailed Hawk	Can be seen in the NCA year-round
	Swainson's Hawk	Argentina		Migrating	National Conservation Area				Migrating		Argentina
	Turkey Vulture	SW U.S. & Mexico	Migrating	National Conservation Area						Migrating	Southwest U.S. and Mexico
	Barn Owl	Can be seen in the NCA year-round
	Burrowing Owl	SW U.S. & Mexico	Migrating	National Conservation Area						Migrating	Southwest U.S. and Mexico
	Great Horned Owl	Can be seen in the NCA year-round
	Long-eared Owl	National Conservation Area						Migrating	Higher Elevations		Migrating	National Conservation Area
	N. Saw-whet Owl	Migrating	National Conservation Area				Migrating	Currently Unknown - Possibly Southwest U.S. (Arizona)
	Short-eared Owl	Can be seen in the NCA year-round
	Western Screech Owl	Can be seen in the NCA year-round

MIGRATING RAPTORS	Species	January	February	March	April	May	June	July	August	September	October	November	December
	Bald Eagle	National Conservation Area			Central and Northern Idaho & other regions further north
	Cooper's Hawk	National Conservation Area		Migrating			Higher elevation areas in Idaho			Migrating		National Conservation Area
	Gyr Falcon	Possibly in National Conservation Area		Migrating	Arctic regions of Canada and Alaska						Migrating	Possibly in National Conservation Area
	Merlin	National Conservation Area		Migrating	Canada and Alaska						Migrating	National Conservation Area
	Northern Goshawk	National Conservation Area		Migrating	Central Idaho Mountains and Forests						Migrating	National Conservation Area
	Osprey	Central & South America		Migrating	Central and Northern Idaho along rivers and lakes					Migrating	Central and South America
	Peregrine Falcon	Southwest U.S. & Northern Mexico		Migrating	Historically used the National Conservation Area			Higher elevation plains		Migrating		Southwest U.S. & Northern Mexico
	Rough-legged Hawk	National Conservation Area				Migrating	Arctic regions of Canada and Alaska				Migrating	National Conservation Area
	Sharp-shinned Hawk	National Conservation Area		Migrating	Higher elevations in Idaho						Migrating	National Conservation Area

 In the NCA

 Not in the NCA